ABOUT

Jesse has been known for his smooth-talking ways throughout his life. He has an alter ego, "Jesse LeThotty," that comes out when he's out on the town. Even as a kid, he used to get reprimanded for being too chatty. His favorite form of connection is through music, and he has performed for years in front of crowds. Jesse's voice has been compared to great singers like Chris Brown, Michael Jackson and Justin Bieber... and all he wants is one chance to prove that he belongs in their company.

THE DETAILS

- ⦿ Jesse grew up in a small town and grew up running around his family's 12-acre property. He was usually outside climbing trees and getting dirty, spending time with his three older sisters. Always the talker, he asked a ton of questions growing up and was always singing as a way to get attention from girls. While he loved playing football and baseball, singing was what he was great at, and Jesse knew it was what he wanted to do with his life – even back then.
- ⦿ Jesse was inspired to pursue music by his father, a singer who performed with greats like George Clinton. Jesse still remembers running around the studio watching his dad sing and being mesmerized by his talent. He always wanted to give it a shot himself, and slowly but surely started putting his music out there. He has recently found some success as a songwriter and even has a songwriting credit on Chris Brown's latest album 11:11.
- ⦿ Jesse has seen a lot of tragedy within his own family that has changed his perspective on life. When he was 9, his mother and sister were diagnosed with MS, and watching them try and navigate the disease was heartbreaking but also inspiring. He saw them fight every single day and it motivated him to fight for the things he wants in life. More than anything, he wants to see his family healthy and he relishes the time he gets to spend with them. Unfortunately, their conditions have deteriorated, so he wants to provide them with the best life possible.
- ⦿ Jesse has always had the talent, but now he's fully throwing himself into the life he's always wanted. With a 7-year-old son, he's motivated to provide him with incredible opportunities and show him that a dream in the arts is possible – just like his own father showed him all those years ago.

Casting Note: He appeared on American Song Contest (NBC) in 2021.
